Summary of the Event (Around 100 words)	A workshop on Live Trading in Financial Derivatives was organized for MBA students to provide them with practical exposure to the functioning of financial markets and derivative instruments. The workshop focused on understanding futures and options, market movements, trading strategies, order execution, and risk management. Through live market demonstrations and practical examples, students gained insights into how derivative trades are executed and how market information influences trading decisions. The session enhanced students' practical knowledge and helped bridge the gap between theoretical concepts and real-world financial market practices.
